Our business

Mas National (Mas) is a leading provider of workforce participation programs, business mentoring and provider of administration services, with our surpluses reinvested to create future opportunities in our communities. Our vision is to be a leading provider of sustainable workforce solutions, by providing innovative, feasible and efficient employment and administrative service options.

Mas has provided apprenticeship support services to employers and individuals across Australia since 1998.

Founded in 1998, Melbourne Apprenticeship Services (Mas) was formed as a joint venture between Inner Northern Group Training and Western Region Group Training, and rebranded in 2002 to Mas National after acquiring an apprenticeship centre in South Australia.

In 2007, Inner Northern Group Training acquired Western Region Group Training's share of Mas' Administration Services, and became sole 'member'. Mas' Shared Services became the core of INGT Group Services (Finance, IT and HR).

Mas currently engages 100 employees, including subcontractors, to deliver services to 41,000 employers across 36 offices nationally. There are currently three Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people employed at Mas.

From July 2015, Mas has delivered Career Counselling services to over 8000 job seekers, brokered over 40,000 persons into employment in a traineeship or apprenticeship pathway, provided In-Training-Support mentoring to 6,000 trainees and apprentices, and supported 10,000 employers nationally.

As a nationally focused, not-for-profit organisation operating within a commercial environment, Mas is committed to providing end to end workforce solutions to businesses and government bodies across Australia, and providing dignity and hope to all people through workforce participation programs, support, training and employment.

Our RAP

Mas is driven to promote active engagement in employment for everyone in the communities in which we work. Mas has invested in the development of a Reconciliation Action Plan to build strong relationships and enhanced respect with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, organisations and communities, and to better ensure that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children have the same life opportunities as other Australian children.

The development of a RAP will provide our organisation with the time, structure and opportunity to raise awareness and support for this initiative within Mas. The development of a RAP will also assist us with establishing a robust governance model and build the business case for our future commitment towards cultural learning, securing employment for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, and lead to a more inclusive and culturally mature organisation.

Mas is currently contracted by the Australian Government Department of Education and Training to deliver Australian Apprenticeship Support Services in South Australia, Victoria and Tasmania. Incorporated in this contract is an Indigenous Procurement Policy (IPP) which is intended to achieve an increase in engagement with and purchasing from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities and enterprises. This approach is designed to achieve a framework to increase employment outcomes for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

While this contract provides impetus to the development of a Reconciliation Action Plan, the CEO of Mas

National and Board have a clear appetite for the development of an inclusive approach to and meaningful engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. We believe this will provide us with new opportunities and is consistent with our corporate values of;

- Teamwork & Partnerships
- Achievement
- Integrity & Honesty
- Innovation
- Respect & Inclusion
- Quality

Emma Bamblett

Clan: Wemba Wemba

Emma Bamblett was born and raised in Echuca on the Murray River. Since moving to Melbourne 16 years ago, Emma has found inspiration and motivation from the arts community in Melbourne and had a wonderful opportunity through events such as the Koorie Night Market to showcase her artwork. She has also had a lot of opportunity to express her artwork through the work she does in the Aboriginal child and family welfare sector. Emma has found purpose and meaning in her artwork which represents the stories and struggles for vulnerable children, youth and families.

Emma's preferred medium is acrylic on canvas. She loves to show the bright and vibrant colours through her artwork and hopes people see and feel what she is feeling when they look at her paintings.

About the Artwork

This painting represents the Mas National Reconciliation Action Plan.

The blue and purple sections with the fine lines throughout represent respect. The lined areas are throughout the painting to highlight respect for Country, Aboriginal people and Traditional Owners.

The blue footprints throughout the painting represent Mas' journey through learning, building knowledge and working together respectfully with the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community. The footprints are different sizes and going in different directions to represent the diverse and rich country areas.

The purple lines connecting with the green circles represent the mentoring program. They are joining and growing to show opportunities within the community when entering an apprenticeship or traineeship.

The grey areas with the red curved symbols represent apprenticeships.

The curved boomerang/shield shapes represent traineeships.

The figures throughout the painting represents the Mas staff working together with the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Community.

The clap sticks represent the cultural programs across Australia designed for connection, increasing knowledge, celebrations and reflection of Aboriginal Culture.

The purple areas with the circles connecting with curved lines represent the ongoing partnerships with Community, key stakeholders, Elders and the Mas workforce.

The blue hills throughout the centre of the painting highlights the importance of land and country. Across Australia there are up to 500 language groups, and the blue hill formations represent the diverse Aboriginal culture and different clans / mob across the country.

Our Journey

Over 20 years of delivering traineeship and apprenticeship support services, Mas has engaged local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities to assist community members to engage in training and employment opportunities. Mas has worked with Registered Training Organisations (RTO), Group Training Organisations (GTO) and industry groups to promote state and local government programs that encourage Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples' participation in the Vocational Education and Training system.

In more recent years, Mas has invested in cultural awareness training for all staff members nationally, and have further developed stakeholder engagement with organisations that support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities.

Our Champions & Reconciliation Working Group

The RAP will be driven by the Mas National CEO. This role will champion for the cause and ensure the deliverables identified in the plan below are achieved. The Mas National RAP Working Group will be led by the Mas National CEO and includes employees who will be responsible for the development and implementation of the RAP, representing the diversity of our organisation.

The current RAP working group includes:

- Poul Bottern (IntoWork Group CEO)
- Ruth Hundertmark (Mas National CEO)
- Warren Ferrari (Mas State Manager - TAS)
- Renee Smart (Tenders and New Programs Manager)
- Shane Williams (First Nations Engagement Officer)

Our partnerships/current activities

In Tasmania, Mas engages with specialist organisations that provide support services to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Australians including Circular Head Aboriginal Corporation – Anna Kay; Steps Group – Andrew Duddy; Brumby Hill Aboriginal Corporation – Graeme Heald and AFL SportsReady to ensure that our strategies are effective in attracting local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander talent.

Mas' subsidiary business, Business & Employment, has held a working relationship with The Circular Head Aboriginal Corporation (CHAC) for over 10 years and continues in collaboration to supply the community with an array of staff training opportunities and client apprenticeship driven strategies and outcomes.

We are currently assisting a range of participants that are engaged in the Jobs, Land, and Economy Programme - Brumby Hill North West and West Project, and a number of these participants have been successful in becoming a part of the Australian Apprenticeship program.

Mas continues to work with Graeme Heald on their Vocational Training & Education Centres (VTEC) program which will extend to Launceston for the first time and include the North West and West Coast. Graeme is keen to co-locate in Launceston and currently utilises our Devonport office for interviews and meetings. We also provide Gateway Support for the VTEC participants to enhance apprenticeship outcomes for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

Mas has built and maintained a relationship with the Ngopamuldi Aboriginal Corporation in South Australia for over 12 years.

Our local business consultant has regular meetings with the Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Community Elders and government agencies to identify funding and support available to meet the identified needs of the organisation and their community.

The Ngopamuldi Aboriginal Corporation was first established in 2004. The corporation was established in response to a need to develop and implement a process to increase the capacity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people to participate in the management of natural resources throughout South Australia.

The Ngarrindjeri nation experiences high levels of unemployment and limited job options. Consequently, Mas works closely with Ngopamuldi Aboriginal Corporation, who operate two programs; Raukkan Farm and Riverreen Recovery Project, to support the community to engage in training and employment.

In conjunction with the Council and the Raukkan Farm (which is now a commercial enterprise) young Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander boys/men from the school and community continue to successfully complete traineeships in Land Conservation Training.

NAC have developed and delivered a number of natural resource management projects throughout a number of regions. Some of the projects undertaken include:

- Burial site re-vegetation projects
- Conservation and Land Management Training
- Wetland re-vegetation and monitoring
- Facilitation of Cross Cultural awareness days
- Facilitation of Cultural Affirmation camps

Over the years, the community has had trainees employed in land conservation (from Certificate II to Diploma level) with very high completion rates.

Mas staff continue to work with the community and schools to find students who are disengaged and assist them to work alongside their Uncles and Aunts, who have either successfully completed or are still engaged in further learning.

This community program has transformed the community where learning is now expected and encouraged. Young Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students know they need to reach a minimum level of schooling to be considered for jobs on the land.

In 2018, the corporation officially signed a 20 year contract with the largest distributor of cut flowers in Australia. They will supply 200,000 units each year of wild flowers from their nursery. They have 10 people employed, 4 current trainees, and retained those trainees that have previously completed.

Kevin Kropinyeri, manager, says "We have had a 12 year relationship with Mas, starting with school based apprentices, many who are at risk of leaving school we have kept many engaged and continuing with their schooling. Last year we had a graduation which celebrated from Certificate II to Diploma students, it has been an amazing program with the students loving how relevant and skill based the training is. This year we are very proud of our female participants, they have been some of the best employees we have ever had".

"I have really enjoyed the course, I wasn't keen on school but this is so different, I just love it and I'm looking forward to finishing and going on to the next level"

Meshayla Shaw

Ngopamuldi Aboriginal Corporation currently have 6 Aboriginal males completing a Certificate III in Civil Construction with Carey Training, an 100% owned Aboriginal Registered Training Organisation, working on the Riverreen Recovery Project. This project focuses on using adaptive management and engineering solutions to restore more natural water flows to critical ecosystems along the River Murray between Wellington and the border of South Australia and Victoria.

Engagement with local stakeholders, including landholders and Aboriginal Nations and a recognition that information must support decision-making underpins the project.

"The training and work has been great, we have learnt so many skills and the tickets we have done, like skid steer have been amazing, we are all looking forward to completing our certificate and are working hard with Carey Training to get through."

Rodney Reid – Project participant

"This has been a wonderful opportunity for our team to gain Nationally Accredited Training, each of the boys will come out with a variety of additional tickets that will assist them with future career choices".

Arthur Walker – Project Manager

Ngarrindjeri, or Camp Coorong, have also developed a robust relationship with Mas.

Over the years our team have worked with the community to provide a Certificate III in Land Conservation Program for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

In more recent times, Mas have helped Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander school-based students to stay engaged at school with the plan of completing Year 12. Students who complete the Certificate II are encouraged to go on to a traineeship at the Certificate III level.

Our staff regularly meet with the manager, Uncle Buddy, to look at their training and business needs. We have identified many existing workers needed to up skilled with the diversification of their business.

Four students are now doing a Certificate III in Arboriculture and another 5 undertaking a Certificate IV in Land Conservation, with the long term plan for all students to compete a Diploma in Land Conservation.

Georgina Trevorow completed her Certificate III and is now undertaking a Certificate IV. After completing her Certificate III, Georgina took up a position as a ranger and says:

"My traineeship gave me the skills and knowledge to work in a job I love".
